Excerpt from History of the 104th Pennsylvania Regiment: From August 22nd, 1861, to September 30th, 1864

This volume contains the history of the One Hundred and Fourth Pennsylvania Regiment.

When I re-entered the military service, in the fall of 1861, I became possessed of two hobbies; one, that of writing the history of my regiment, and the other, to have a monument erected to the memory of those who might fall in action, or die of wounds or disease, which I hope to be able to carry out some time in the future. The former has been accomplished in the following pages; while nearly enough money has been raised to build the latter.

This work needs no apology. It contains no wonderful exploit; but a simple narrative of the campaigns of the regiment, which has been written without passion or prejudice, and with a sincere desire to do justice to all. No doubt, many other regiments performed more brilliant service; but none bore more faithful allegiance to the great cause of the Constitution and the Union. In the qualities that make good soldiers, - discipline, respect for superiors, perfection in drill, cleanliness, steadiness under fire, freedom from pillage, and manly endurance under all the trying vicissitudes of war - the men of the 104th Pennsylvania regiment had no superiors. With this preface, the work is given to the public.
