The Benefits and uses of a Daily Planner A daily planner is something that is almost necessary for most working and busy adults. As people accomplish their tasks and goals they have set out for the day, they may become forgetful of other things that matter as well. By keeping a daily planner, the individual is less likely to forget about certain things that many people forget. The things the many people forget to do while working can be very costly, such as forgetting to pay bills, forgetting to send mail, forgetting to do a homework assignment, or anything else that matters to that individual. A daily planner keeps people organized and disciplined throughout their daily activities.
